

NEWS FROM The Inland See

March 24–30, 2018

FOR THE DIOCESE OF BURLINGTON

A new diocesan website has launched.

The decision to revamp the website at vermontcatholic.org was made because the original website was designed 10 years ago and really hadn't been updated since.

After three years as bishop of Burlington, Bishop Christopher Coyne was ready to share his vision — one Church, one community — and create a web presence that not only reflects this vision but is inviting and easy to navigate for the Catholic community and those interested in Catholicism.

Burlington Bytes, a Vermont based website design firm, began working with the diocesan communication staff to redesign the website last fall.

One of the top reasons people visit the diocesan website is to find a Mass time. The new parish/Mass search option integrates a Google map into the search and allows Catholics to find a Mass based on location up to a 200-mile radius. People can also search for Catholic schools and cemeteries.

The Vermont Catholic Online News and the diocesan events calendar also are integrated throughout the website, so news stories and events related to certain ministries and programs will display on that ministry page. For example, the June 23 annual Family Day in Troy and the August 25 Year of the Family Conference in Montpelier will be featured on the Marriage and Family webpage.

Vermont Catholic eNews also received a major makeover. Catholics now have the option to select what news categories they'd like included in their eNews report: all, Vermont, schools, nation, world or Vatican. They also will receive a list of events happening throughout the state and feature articles.

The new, mobile-friendly format allows users to visit vermontcatholic.org from their tablet or phone as well, to stay in touch with the Catholic community of Vermont from anywhere.
