

The NEWS FROM Inland See

February 1-7, 2020

FOR THE DIOCESE OF BURLINGTON

Howard Coffin's 2001 book "An Inland See" strove to record, preserve and pass on the story of the Church in Vermont. Today's The Inland See bulletin hopes to add current moments to this rich history.

Vermont's Catholic schools have been welcoming students into their family for more than 140 years. Today, nearly 2,000 students in pre-kindergarten through 12th grade enjoy a values-driven, academically excellent, nurturing experience in one of Vermont's 13 state-accredited Catholic schools.

Explore everything that Catholic schools offer, and you might find that you belong here too.

"It doesn't matter where you're from or what your background is, you're accepted and you're included," said a student at South Burlington's Rice Memorial High School.

Vermont Catholic Schools:

- Believe in values that build a better world;
- Excel in academics that support lifelong learning;
- Lead innovation for the future;
- Open hearts to welcome all;
- Nurture each individual's creativity; and
- Give back to those who need it most.

Catholic schools exist to instill strong values in students and to create a desire to make a positive difference in the world by nurturing individual creativity and promoting community service as a way of life.

Academic excellence plays an integral role in Catholic school programs. Vermont Catholic schools consistently perform above the national average on standardized tests. While some schools experiment with alternative curriculums and performance measures, Vermont's Catholic schools are committed to a traditional curriculum and assessments that prepare students for college and the world beyond, with more than 90 percent of Vermont's Catholic high school students attending college.

In Vermont's Catholic schools, more than 200 professionals who are committed to excellence in education work hard to create positive, nurturing environments in which each individual can learn and grow and feel unique. The supportive environment enables students to concentrate on learning, become self-disciplined and learn to respect all people.

"People care about you," said a student at Good Shepherd Catholic School in St. Johnsbury.

"They make me feel welcome every day," said a student about the community at Christ the King School in Rutland.
